

Problem #5. The Nahuatl sentences begin with the predicate. The subject and object (or objects) follow in any order, preceded by in (a definite article).

The verb receives the following prefixes:

- subject: ni- 1st person sg, ti- 2nd person sg, — 3rd person sg;
- object: nēch- 1st person sg, mitz- 2nd person sg, k- 3rd person sg;
- another object: tē- ‘somebody’, tla- ‘something’.

As well as the following suffixes:

- ‘make ...’:
 - <intransitive verb>-tia (with lengthening of a preceding i),
 - <transitive verb>-ltia;
- ‘do for ...’: -lia (with change of a preceding a to i).

Often the same action with and without an object is expressed by different verbs.

Answers:

- | | | | |
|-----|-----|--|---|
| (a) | 18. | tiktlazohltaltia
in zihuātl in kuauhxīnki | you make the woman love the carpenter;
you make the carpenter love the woman |
| | 19. | nēchtzāhtzītia | he makes me shout |
| | 20. | tikhuīteki | you beat him |
| | 21. | nikēhuilia in kikatl in tīzītl | I sing the song for the healer |
| | 22. | nikneki in ātōlli | I want the atole |
| | 23. | mitztlakāhualtia | he makes you leave something |
| | | | |
| (b) | 24. | he makes me prepare the atole | nēchchīhualtia in ātōlli |
| | 25. | you prepare the wine for somebody | tiktēchīhuilia in oktli |
| | 26. | the healer makes you sleep | mitzkochītia in tīzītl |
| | 27. | I sing something | nitlaēhua |
| | 28. | I fall | nihuetzi |