(N) A Saharan Sensation (1/1) [10 Points]

The Meroitic script was used to write the Meroitic language from the 3rd century BCE, spoken in the Kingdom of Kush (located in the area that is now northern Sudan and southern Egypt).

Below on the left are twelve words in Meroitic script. On the right are the same twelve words written in the Roman alphabet with English translations, but in scrambled order. The English translations are not necessary to solve the problem.
